A LEADING INNOVATION PRECINCT

Liverpool's Innovation Precinct is anchored by Liverpool Public Hospital, Australia's largest standalone hospital. It also includes Sydney Southwest Private Hospital and Ingham Institute of Applied Medical Research.

These organisations are supported by the presence of leading teaching and research organisations within Liverpool's CBD, including University of Wollongong, Western Sydney University, the University of NSW and TAFE NSW.

In 2017, representatives from these institutions joined business groups, NSW Government departments and Liverpool City Council to commission PwC to produce Reimagining... the Liverpool Health, Education, Research and Innovation Precinct. The document sets out an ambitious vision for a collaborative and innovative sector taking advantage of the latest technology to drive progress and produce better health and educational outcomes for the whole of South West Sydney.
